Here's what my son and I have to say: SON SAYS: What I liked and disliked about: I've read lots of dinosaur books before but this one taught me new things like dinosaurs didn't have fur and I learned about what they ate. They also talked about dinosaurs I had never heard of before like the Buitreraptor. I had also never seen the Microraptor before. I thought it was cool that they showed how big a dinosaur was compared to a person. When I saw the picture of the Argentinosaurus, I thought it was an elephant with no face. I also didn't know that a T-Rex's tooth makes a good knife. My favorite dinosaur is the Ankylosaurus because it's cool how it has spikes and a hammer tail thingy-ma-jigger. My second favorite dinosaur is the Triceratops because it's cool how it has giant horns and a shield on its head and it's funny that it has a mouth like a beak. My third favorite is the Stegosaurus because it's cool how it looks like it has leaves on its back. My fourth favorite dinosaur is the T-Rex because it's the biggest meat eater. My fifth favorite is the Edmontosaurus because they can make a stampede when there's a bunch together running. There is nothing I didn't like about the book. My bottom line: I loved, loved, loved this book. I would recommend it to little boys my age or 6 years old. MOM SAYS: What I liked and disliked about: For followers of our reviews, you'll note that this book was featured as one of the selections in the Children's Non-Fiction week of our Summer Reading Weekly Book Giveaways. Well, Lo and Behold! What should we spot on our latest visit to the library but National Geographic Kids: Dinosaurs!
