THE POWER OF POSITIVE THINKING by Norman Vincent Peale is one of my favorite books . . . so imagine my delight when I had the opportunity to revisit it recently as a result of listening to the taped version. Best of all: Peale did most of the narration . . . while some could argue that his speaking voice wasn't the greatest (or at least at the age when he read this particular version), I enjoyed it even more so because he was the one doing the reading. His advice from the book remains timeless; i.e., provided you can get through some of the parts that might be a little too religious-based for your particular taste . . . I was able to do so and so was thus able to enjoy such insights as the following: * As you think, so shall you be. * I don't believe people are born negative thinkers. All babies, unless they're ill, are positive. Positive thinking is extremely natural. Unfortunately, some babies are born into negative households. Since they're very susceptible to their environment, they absorb the negative impulses and attitudes around them.* Create a mental picture of yourself as a success. Hold onto this picture tenaciously. Since your mind tries to complete what it pictures, always picture SUCCESS no matter how badly things seem to be going at the moment. Whenever a negative thought about your personal power comes to mind, deliberately voice a positive thought to cancel it out.* Anger, fear and worry are among the most subtle and destructive of all emotions. To counteract their power, fill your mind with good will, forgiveness, faith, and love.
